

VERMONT
HUMANITIES

Presents

November 18th 5:30-7:30 pm

Courageous Conversations with Neighbors

Overcoming Religious Domination

Join us for an evening of critical discussion regarding religious freedom in America. The separation of church and state is a central tenet of our democracy. However, there are those in power looking to turn the United States into a theological regime.

This program, The Dangerous Resurgence of White Christian Nationalism, will be facilitated by Rev. Arnold Isidore Thomas, Retired Pastor of the Good Shepherd Church in Jericho.

Religion is a basis for community across the world. While the first amendment to the Constitution prohibits the government from favoring any religion over others, the mindset of White Christian Nationalism was firmly rooted in the American way of life long before and after the creation of our nation, and continues to hinder the progress of our country becoming a truly inclusive inter-religious society.

Rev. Thomas will help us explore the biblical and historical roots of White Christian Nationalism, its present-day challenges to democracies throughout the world, and the means by which it can be overcome.

FREE DINNER provided by Parker Pie for all that register!

*IN PARTNERSHIP WITH
VERMONT OFFICE OF RACIAL EQUITY
& GLOVER EQUITY*

United We Stand: Connecting Through Culture

an initiative to support local public humanities projects that promote cross-cultural understanding

Register online with QR code

Or RSVP by email jedi@gloverequity.org

GLOVER
EQUITY

